Brand New Book. Excerpt from Route for a Month s Tour Through the Alps of Switzerland By the route here described the tourist (whether man or woman) may visit, in thirty or thirty-five days, the points of special interest on the principal passes of the Alps, its grandest glaciers included, besides the lakes and much of the scenery of lower Switzerland. The plan in its principal points was laid out for the writer in i 860, by Prof. H. de Saussure of Geneva. Only the names of the passes and the prominent places are mentioned below, as all details as to excursions about each place, even to the names of hotels and expenses of horses and guides, may be learned from the guide-books, either Murray s, published in London, or Baedeker s, which is far preferable, and may be had in German, French, or English.
