Reviews

It is straightforward in go through easier to recognize. I actually have study and that i am sure that i will going to study yet again again down the road. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.

Zondervan. Hardcover. Condition: New. 128 pages. Some days, the news seems too much to bear. Yet another tsunami or earthquake or flood or fire or war atrocity. One more gun-toting madman stalking young people in idyllic Norway or moviegoers in Colorado or schoolchildren in Newtown, Connecticut. We turn off the news only to get a phone call about expectant parents with a stillborn baby, or a loved one whose cancer has returned. Really, God we ask. This again If we have faith in God, it gets shaken to the core. What was God doing in the moment when that tragedy could have been prevented If we cant trust God to keep our children safe or our loved ones from dying in agony, what can we trust God for It is the question that never goes away. The Question is highlighted in Newtown, Connecticut, where at the scene of the elementary school murders an ambulance driver said, All of us on the fire and ambulance corps are volunteers. Ive seen some awful things, but we dont train for something like this---nobody does. The Question raises its head again in Japan where a giant tsunami raced at a speed of 500 miles per hour toward shore and in the crushing force of its wave buckled roads, cracked bridges, and collapsed buildings. And 16, 000 people died. But in a miraculous turn, an eighty-year-old grandmother and her teenage son were saved after nine days. In one more part of the world Yancey looks at the Question in the former Yugoslavia, in the city of Sarajevo, where a bloody civil war erupted and snipers shot and killed 11, 000 countrymen, some women and children. One woman commented, Winters were the worst. Without electricity we had no heat. I had a newborn baby, born in...
